OFFICER SHOOTS AS EIGHT ATTACK HIM

Man With Bullet in Body Says Crowd Attracted Him to Spot.

Pedro Gonzales, who resides at the corner of Seventh street and Stevens avenue, was taken to the police station late Sunday afternoon and a bullet removed from his body. Later, special officer Albert Harold, who was employed to watch a dance on South Santa Fe street near Seventh street was arrested and a charge of hssault docketed against him, but he was released to appear in court later.

Late Saturday night, while Harold was watching at the dance, eight men jumped on him in an alley at the rear of the house and tried to take his gun away from him, but he held to it and discharged it. The bullet extracted from the body of Gonzalez was the same aliber as that used by Harold.

The ball entered Gonzalez's stomach ear the center and was located by Dr. Butler lodged in the muscles above left hip. Gonzalez was removed to home and will undoubtedly recover He told the police that he had been in the alley at the time Harold shot, having been attracted there by a crowd.

The city will make several improvements at Washington park. It is probable that chief among these will be the sinking of a well to secure good water for the natatorium, and also for drinking rurposes. It will be sunk close to the natatorium At present a force of men is at work making repairs on the various concessions which are to be rented by the city

THE GHOSTS IN THE CIRCUS TENT

Tells of a "Terrible"

Experience. "What d'ye know about ghosts!" queried a stout man who invaded the editorial rooms of The Herald this afternoon, bearing with him an air of having exceeded the speed limit.

"No, of course you don't believe in 'em.
I didn't use to myself until we played our two-day engagement at Kansas City.

An'—"
"Who was playing?"
"We was. The Sells-Floto show. This "We was. The Sells-Floto show nearis straight ghosts—none of your near-press agent stuff.

"An' so you never seen an elephant cry like a baby when there was ghosts about, an' a man eatin' lion cringin' in one corner of his cage like a whipped spaniel! Well, I saw it.

"We were in Kansas City—got in there a Sunday morning an' that night of a Sunday morning an' that night about 12 oclock, I guess, I was the only one awake on the lot. I couldn't sleep, so I strayed over to the big top. Just as I reached there I hears the sound of voices talkin."

""What will the little lady have, the hoops or the banners! says a voice. Then a woman laughed—one of those silvery, tinklin laughs.
"The little lady chooses the banners," says the first voice.

"Well, says I to myself, if these circus riders of ours ain't a goin' crazy.
Here's Flora Bedini or Miss Hobson practicing their principal act in the middle of the night. With that I pokes my head in under the curtain an' what d'ye think prettiest white horse I ever looked at she was a dream in purple an' gold, ridin' around the lower ring, throwin kisses to an imaginary audience. A tall ringmaster rigged up in the clothes they wore a hundred years ago was in the middle of the ring, but he didn't say nothin'. Just kept the horse movin'.

"The clown climbed on the edge of the bank and started to sing. He commenced this way:

"If you listen to my story I will try and tell you something Which you see "I remember the words perfectly, be cause his voice was as clear as a bell, but just then I sneezed, an' gee whit-taker! the hull outfit disappeared before could bat my eyes. "Did I leave that place, brother! I just tore out right through th' menagerie where Old Mamma, the biggest elephant, was sobbin' like a child, an' Julius Caesar, the black-maned African lion, was tryin' to flatten himself on th' floor of his cage. When I got outside I runned into Omar Khavysam, th' hand-somest horse in th' world. He was as wet as if he had been in th' river, an' his eyes as big as saucers—all of a tremble.

"Where had he been? Why, them ghosts had been ridin' him sure, because there was the marks of muddy slippers all over his back.
"Hub! Do I believe in ghosts, eh! I should say ves. Gee, little brother, shut that winder. Whenever I hear th' wind sound so doleful it gives me th'

PRESIDENT RETURNS TO WASHINGTON CITY

Will Take Up Immediately Preparation of Special Message.

Washington, D. C., March 4.-Prestdent Taft returned to Washington to-day from Augusta, Ga., where he had been spending a week's vacation. He went immediately to the white house. The president will take up immediately the preparation of his message to congress, resubmitting the Canadian reciprocity agreement. He ex-pects to confer with leaders of both parties in the immediate future regarding the work of the special wession, stating his desire that the reciprocity agreement be ratified and the tariff board bill be passed. That, it is declared, is all the president wants done at the special session. He would prefer that congress would defer any revision of the tariff schedules until the regular session next November.
Soon after his return to the white house the president had a number of cabinet conferences. The first was with secretary of war Dickinson, who reported that the army divisions sent to Texas and California, had demonstrated their ability to be ready in any emergency. At present there is no thought of breaking the big camp at San Antonio. The president this afternoon will have a conference with the Mexican ambassador, senor De La

ON GALVESTON TROOPS Galveston, Texas, March 20.-Rain fell in torrents at Fort Crockett last night and almost drowned out the 3600 ldiers who arrived yesterday from the north on transports and spent the night under the shelter of their dog tents. Several large tents were blown down and the smaller ones that stood were rendered practically uninhabitable. The camp remains absolutely free from sickness but every precaution is being taken to ward off disease. Gen. Mills set a good example yesterday to the officers by baring his arm for an initial injection of typhoid garms.
